It's amazing how many hippies like myself are going bonkers maga but the "real hippies" are just brainwashed fucking pussies in Portland. Remember their garden 😂.

In fact, I believe the rainbow gathering group of people that followed the dead for decades could be of use if they weren't all so cucked. To freely move around that much lsd easily and off grid requires some pretty nifty Marketing ideas, which could be of use on our side as a means of trade and communications outside of the internet.

It really is pathetic how they think they are still "counter culture" and raging against the machine. If your counter culture is supported by every MSM and corp... is it REALLY a counterculture? I have to keep my MAGAness away from them. I'll post red pills like "I don't support Trumo but..... red pill." Actually the guitarist of the best Dead cover was kicked out of the band last week for posting about the Steal. Damn shame.

No, I worded that horribly, the local Dead cover in my area. I do like how John Mayer was a conceited douchebag celebrity admittedly, played with Bob Weir on a late night TV show, lived with Weir in a trailer out back of his house dosing and training, then completely admitted he was a piece of shit and accepted love into his life. Mayer really did turn the fuck around solely because of the Dead.

Oops! Meant to say in my area. The best cover band in general is 100% Joe Russo's Almost Dead. They take Dead songs to heights that even the OG band never did! Of course OG Dead is always going to be the best, but they are the best possible continuation of the music.

That sounds like something an FBI agent, seeking to entrap members of the patriot movement, would say.

It is unethical to use force against another American unless you are attacked by that person first and you are in fear for your life. Rittenhouse's attorneys say that this applies to him, and there is evidence supporting this interpretation, however the courts will ultimately decide.

In the meantime, any violent act by a Trump supporter will certainly be turned against us by the media. So we need to be very, very careful.

Just remember the first March on DC in November -- the families with kids were targeted.

If you want them to be there -- hire a baby sitter and have her/him sit in the hotel room with the kids while you are defending the constitution.

But -- do as you please... It is still a free country.

If my children were under the age of 16 -- I would not allow them to be on the streets

Speculation that this will be like Tniem square is really starting to hurt momentum for this event. Many are now scared to show up.

What could have been a show of support of millions in a family friendly march is now looking like it will be just a few thousand Rambo's if we don't change the tone of the conversation quickly.

The fact that you can still reserve a flight and get a hotel within a few miles of the capital, tells me the fear mongering is working.

I'm coming unarmed and I disagree that families should be discouraged from coming. There is strength in numbers. Yes, there is risk, but that risk is not worth the downside of reduced numbers.

I really do love you family people, but I have to be harsh for the sake of any children who might be dragged into this...

What happens if the Senate goes for Biden? Do you say 'oh well' to your children and leave, hoping nothing happens to your family on the way out, as if ANTIFA doesn't exist? You bring your children to show that Trump voters exist, which everyone knows? Your children didn't vote. Are you there to be ignored or miscast by the media, which you can safely expect them to do? What is the magic number of human pylons that Pence needs to feel comfortable? This was never put across as a 'family-friendly march.' What part of 'will be wild' do you not understand?

Biden supporters have attacked children in public, right in front of the cameras. They will do it again. Don't bring your kids.

In Tiananmen Square, the state used military force against the people. This was universally seen as oppressive.

To be brutally honest, this is part of the value of having millions of people go. It makes it very hard for the seditionists to use force against them; the optics are really bad, and the correlation of forces is against the Deep State.

Remember: all of those snakes in the FBI and DOJ know perfectly well that 100 million+ Americans supported Trump. Their nightmare is that all those people show up at their workplace and say "NO MORE".

People compare it to the Bonus March. But the Bonus Marchers were far less numerous and their cause was a special interest. In this case, it is literally half the country, or more, that supports Trump.

As I have said before, I think every person who is physically and financially able should go. We always said we would come if called. Well, that day is here. Either you are as good as your word, or you aren't.

I'm not able to make it to DC but if I was, I would absolutely bring my 16 year old son! He would never forgive me if I didn't. He's a critical thinker and totally based. He doesn't believe a lot of the bullshit from here and believes none of the bullshit from the left. We are both moderate conservatives. There is a lot of pretty edgy stuff here that we investigate with healthy skepticism.

There is no doubt in our minds that this election was absolutely fraudulent and the alleged victory for Biden was stolen via several methods in 7 key states. And that local Senate/House seats were also stolen. This isn't conspiracy. The evidence is overwhelming.

Anyone who denies it is knowingly lying to themselves, holding their fingers in their ears while shouting "na na na I can't hear you!"

This is a highly personalized decision. I hope we clog the streets from the end of the joint meeting of Congress til after DJT gets inaugurated. That means living like Civil War camps and would be rugged. This would be likely to experience confrontation, and not by blm.

Some women won't be deterred, some would prefer other arrangements. Please consider carefully and move in LARGE groups. Like 50 vehicles from your State. We should organize different groups according to the plan.

Let me give you a scenario. You are watching the event. You hear a report that the Senate has voted to ignore the concerns and certify the electors for Biden. You look up to see a crowd of armed patriots assaulting the Senate doors. Bullets begin flying and you hear the zzzing sound as the ricochet past your son.

This could happen. Leave the kids at home.

They have to be big enough to handle the average opponent. Even if a 12 y.o. Is big enough, the maturity isnt there.

I would say high school age at a minimum and only if theyve shown the ability to take care of themselves in a dangerous situation. Because in all likelihood that is what they will be facing.

Or are you gonna use the weapons on those trying to disarm you, because those will be your 2 choices? Do you really think you'll overwhelm them with small arms? Or you just believe your gonna scare them into letting you all walk up to congress with guns? Agree 100%. People acting like this is going to be the starting battle of the second civil war are absolutely retarded. Let me just say that i'm all for standing up for our freedom by all means necessary, but Trump said to come protest, not "hey militias come with your arms to fuck shit up if this doesn't work out". He is NOT going to be cryptic when he makes a call to action like that. A majority of the people going will be average supporters, not anyone who agreed to fight til the death for our freedom unsuspectingly. Causing shit like this to break out is so incredibly stupid. It'll be pure, unorganized chaos and more people will get killed than necessary because, again, It's the 6th, and his legal team has been saying they have until JANUARY 20.

Don't do stupid shit to deter people from going. Don't do stupid shit when you're there. You will absolutely fuck it up for everyone, including trump. We still have until the 20th. Protect yourself by all means but please stop with this being the start of the civil war unless Trump DIRECTLY says it will be, which he wont because we're not there yet.

I don't give a shit if it's an armed event. That's different from literally starting a civil war.

The insurrection act calls for armed militias. Not a fucking tweet saying "will be wild". You wait until all other options have been exhausted before steamrolling any chance of Trump holding office and then you act. I don't know how starting a civil war on the 6th when you're surrounded by innocent people who came to protest for the same cause & not give up their life is going to grant you a Trump presidency. Trump isn't a tyrant. He still holds office. Wait until it's clear that it'll be stolen from him instead of derailing any chance he has. His legal team has said over and over and over that the 20th is the day to worry. In the mean time, start organizing with people who are armed, are willing to fight, are willing to die, and get a plan of action together for if the 19th rolls around and it's looking grim, instead of springing it on everyone around you who thought they were just going to another Trump rally and getting innocent people killed, all the while saying "well trump said it will be wild! what else did he mean???"

Good point on the goggles. Im a backpacker, i put a shit ton of thought into what stuff weighs. 2l water for a day of full exertion, 4#. 2# food, ill prob bring more, i get hangry. For a typical January day, that can go from standing around, to heavy exertion, ill probabl have 4# of stuff that will be in my pack. My clothing will be enough to make it outside overnight, and not be miserable, if need be. Thats the essentials. So i figure i got maybe 10# for my tool kit. I dont want more than 20# on my back, i can do everything i can normally do with that. My normal pack for a 3 night trip would be 35#, and i know that will take a toll.

Reminds me of an incident in Sweden a few years ago, where 10,000 lefties showed up for an anti protest, many of them brought their kids, and just like expected violence broke out, kids got stabbed and a few people died that day. MSM wrote a lot about it, "neo nazis attacked children" and stuff like that.

Tho in reality there was no conservatives there, they cancelled their protest a few days in advance, which was supposed to be a tiny peaceful protest with just 50 people. So all in all there where just 10,000 lefties fighting each others there, and most of them targeting kids and old people because they're cowards all of them.

I agree with you on the optics. I don't think it will serve any useful purpose in this case. There could be a hundred videos of children being burned alive by Antifa types - it still wouldn't change the MSM narrative, it wouldn't change the elected leftist/uniparty mindset, it wouldn't change any federal judges' mindset and no matter how many "voters" mindset it did change in future elections, the Dominion vote flipping machines would still flip/"correct" to Democrat wins.

What would be accomplished? Bring blind paraplegic kids to DC for double the sympathy factor - right?

If someone's child is old enough, strong enough and mature enough to be sent to the rally on their own, they are probably OK to go with their parent. If not, they shouldn't be out on the streets during this. This isn't a virtue signaling contest. Not every parent has a Kenosha Kyle Kid. If you do, that's great.

If you and I are going together and we get split up in a crowd, I can find my way back to the hotel, and so can you. Is your child old enough and of sufficient maturity to take care of themselves in a crowd that may, without notice, become violent?

D.C.'s gun laws are severe. If the police surround your child, and demand that they drop their weapon and submit to arrest; what happens then? Do they fire on the police? Do the get arrested and face significant criminal prosecution that can alter their lives forever?

Come to D.C. on Jan 6. We need you. We need you to help us fight this fight so our children do not have to fight it later.

But leave your children at home, because if we fall, they will have no choice but to fight this fight another day.

If I was the enemy who was scared against this being the largest rally ever seen in human history I would desperately look for any way to trim the number down.

I would then ask what is the rights weakness. I see they are hopelessly dependent on jobs, families and kids. Seeing kids there I would then suggest that we encourage them to not bring the kids. This might reduce the number from 1+ million to about 600-700K.

In other words how do we know this isn't an enemy talking point to reduce the numbers? At the same time though it is disguised as a valid concern.

Solution: Both. Bring your kids only if you have to but if you do get out of there early before the violence happens.

People are getting far too dramatic. This is a call to assemble, not a call to arms. This is about standing up and being counted.

Yes, be prepared for anything. Yes be secure in your person effects and surroundings.

Could things pop off, sure. Daytime, main event, is safe enough for anybody.

Obviously with the young, elderly and unfit for danger in other ways... make arrangements to be out of dodge long before sundown.

Thank you for a voice of reason in a chorus of deluded nonsense. Nobody is going to a shooting war on the 6th. Nobody is literally breaking down the doors of the Senate. That's not what President Trump asked us to do.

This is about a (different kind of) show of strength - something that NEVER would have been done for Presidents non-elect Dukakis, Dole, Kerry, Romney, Him-Not-Named, Clinton, Biden etc. President Trump won, his popular support was MASSIVE, and he has the continuing hat sales to prove it.

Some people want to practice social disobedience regarding DC's gun laws and make this a 2nd Amendment protest. They may be morally right to do that because the 2nd Amendment says what it says - but it's just a bad place and bad time. They will go to jail for 10 years and probably derail the march. It's not what President Trump is asking us to do. He still commands the military and DOJ. He doesn't need us to bring our guns on the 6th, and it's really stupid of some people on here to suggest it.

Yes. MAGA mums should stay home with their children. There is a reason why they stay off the battle field. The MAGA women can help by organising travel, packing clothes and supplies, and making sure their men leave with a full belly. Have their favourite meal ready for them when they get home.

Absolutely, DC might turn into a Battlefield. Do not bring children under ANY circumstances.

I confirmed my in laws will be watching my children the 6th. Just need to plan getting to DC. Going to rent a car so if there is damage I don't lose my personal car.

I was at the March for Trump in Washington, DC on 12/12 with one of my USMC sons and his girlfriend. Were you? No one I met who attended that rally came away without motivation or uninspired for the fight.

I was accorded the privilege of addressing a gathering of South Vietnamese Trump supporters, letting them know that 50 years before, on October 3, 1970, I was a part of a demonstration 200,000 strong, marching for Victory in Vietnam.

We came back and Marched for Victory in Vietnam again on May 8, 1971. On that date we were >800,000 strong.

Former South Vietnamese officers were dressed in their uniforms and when my speech was done, they saluted me.

I was also present in Washington, DC on November 15, 1969, with my 2 other brothers counter marching the anti-Vietnam War "Moratorium" in the company of ~ 35 adults, some of whom were >70 years old. We carried flags and marched from the Washington Monument to Arlington cemetery. The "Moratorium" was reported to have had > 1MM in attendance; many were waving North Viet Cong flags. We were cursed and spat at. Our bus departed up NY Ave in the midst of a riot. I saw a building set aflame and witnessed a man smash a storefront window, snatching and grabbing what he could.

In 1970, I was only 12 years old.

I and both of my USMC sons will be in DC on January 6.

Will you also be there, regardless of the threat?

Folks, if you have children and still want to come out, find likeminded locals - your elderly parents (you've got time to quarantine beforehand if they're anal about that sort of thing), a close personal friend who might not be at fighting strength, so forth. Leave the kids with them, write off a quick medical power of attorney, and then come out.

For everyone - Update your wills. You should've done that back in March anyway. Not that we're going to have much of a legal system going forward, but your relatives will care. I don't think it will be a serious concern, but if you don't have one... probate hell.

This is a good admonition, but I will note that Antifa has been outnumbered at least 1000 to 1 (literally) and therefore has only dared harass Patriot families at night, once the main protest has winded down and small groups are more vulnerable to assault. There is not likely to be a problem with having families at the protest during the day.

I am thinking of how even the French were able, easily, to storm Macron's presidential palace for peaceful direct action.

The Capitol is property of the American People. We have some trespassers and usurpers to evict.

I suggest you watch all the videos of ppl with kids get beat down this year.

You are a p.o.s. and do not care about your child if you bring them to a potentially violent public outing. You know better and yet want to see them harmed not unlike parents who chop their children's genitals off.

Unless if your kid is the equivalent of the Tasmanian Devil, dual-wielding axes...

They only provide the enemy additional ways to hurt you. This is not to make you feel bad in any way, this is out of concern for the safety of you, and your children.

All of us here care deeply about you, your livelihood, and your safety. We are simultaneously intelligent enough, honest enough, and compassionate enough to advise you that we won't be able to guarantee the safety of your children. The only way to guarantee their safety from potential threats at DC is to not bring them.

Would still absolutely adore if you are able to go! I won't personally be able to go because of financial devastation (Thanks Obamavirus-19!!)
